

GOING OUT IN PARIS IN WINTER

LE ROI LEAR

d'après William Shakespeare
Mise en scène Thomas Ostermeier

AVEC DENIS PODALYDÈS ET MARINA HANDS

King Lear Comédie Française

King Lear, one of Shakespeare's most famous tragedies, is played by Denis Podalydès at the Comédie Française until February 26. In French, prices from 10€.

All kinds of shows At the Supersonic Pub

Free rock concerts between 7 and 11 PM, soul, funk, 80's disco, french pop... nights for 5€, between 11PM and 6AM! The ideal place to listen to good music with friends and to discover the parisian nightlife!

Exhibition Black Indians from New Orleans at the Quai Branly Museum

Until January 23: a tribute to the creativity of African-Americans from Louisiana through Black Indians parades. A mix of historical verses, astonishing costumes and contemporary art.

Research is always useful, but only for whom finances it

In a precise and documented article, Sofia El Mountassir show how private funding permeates scientific research to serve the interest of industrial corporations, at the expense of our society.

Liberals' guilty cowardice before the far right wing

In this column, Odysseas-Dimitrios Théorodou states the political responsibility of our liberal European leaders in the assumption of power of the extreme right. A worrying and realistic view on the current events.

The Gen Z, a generation of procrastinators?

In her brilliant first article, Océane Gilmard analyses why the younger generation is often accused of procrastinating. A necessary fight against clichés about this simplistic observation.

OUR LATEST ARTICLES

LAST MONTH'S NEWS

Revolution in Iran: Towards women's emancipation ?

After two months of protests, 448 deaths and 18 000 imprisonments, Iranian women get their first victory. On December, the 4th, the general attorney announced the abolishment of the morality police, responsible for the assassination of Mahsa Amini and women's repression in the country.

EU Agreement against deforestation

After being accused by WWF of being the 2nd destructor of tropical forests due to its imports, the European Union signed an ambitious agreement aiming at prohibiting the imports of products contributing to deforestation (cocoa, coffee, soya...). The agreement also includes guarantees for the defense of native people.

International recognition for the baguette

The "artisanal know-how and culture of the baguette bread" are now part of the UNESCO "intangible cultural heritage list. A recognition well received by bakers, who hope that it will revive the attractiveness of the job.